

NEWHOUSE PLANS POWERFUL BANK

Eastern Capitalist Said to Have Subscribed $250,000 Toward the Enterprise.

HE INVESTS HEAVILY HERE
NEWHOUSE NOW IN EAST TO ENLIST MORE CAPITAL.

Negotiations are now under way which will lead to the establishing of a $1,000,000 banking house in the Newhouse building. On Friday Emil Maertens, a wealthy wool and cotton manufacturer of Providence, R. I., who has already invested large sums in Salt Lake real estate and Utah mines, entered into a conference with Samuel Newhouse with regard to the establishing of a bank to be located in the Newhouse building. Mr. Maertens made a proposition to Mr. Newhouse in which he stated that if Newhouse would establish a bank with a capital of $1,000,000 and a surplus of $250,000, he would take $250,000 of the stock of the bank and stand ready at any time to produce a certified check for that amount. Mr. Newhouse immediately took the matter in hand and left at once for Denver and the east for the purpose of raising the additional capital.

Mr. Maertens stopped in Salt Lake on his way east from the Yellowstone park and has announced his intention of buying a home in Salt Lake. He has just completed negotiations for the control of the Northern group of claims at Rawhide, for which he paid $40,000 in cash, and has also made extensive investments in Pioche. Mr. Maertens is the most noted wool expert in the world and is rated in Bradstreet's and Dun's at more than $20,000,000. He is the inventor of a process for the manufacture of cotton goods and receives a royalty from nearly every cotton mill in the United States. He is a Belgian by birth, but came to the United States at an early age.

The Newhouse bank will be completed about Jan. 1 and the bank, it is intended, will open its doors for business at that time.

Mr. Maertens was the first man to utilize the grease extracted from raw wool. From this grease the company of which he is head, manufactures a sheep dip which it is claimed is an absolute preventive of "scab." He will open offices in the Judge building in the next few weeks which will be in charge of Ernest Green, his consulting engineer, until his return to Salt Lake.

TROUBLE IN BAKER FAMILY

Mother Wants Her Two Children Taken From Stepfather and Placed in Orphanage.

Mrs. Mary A. Baker wants her two boys, nine and five years old, to stay at the Orphans' home, where they were placed by the order of the juvenile court, instead of at the residence of their stepfather, Robert O. Baker, whom she is suing for divorce.

She brought the children to the juvenile court office yesterday, followed closely by the husband. To J. E. Eldredge, sr., clerk of the court, she told her story and asked that the children be placed in the orphanage again. The boys seemed to be very fond of their stepfather and it was difficult to separate them from him. He is a gardener at the M. H. Walker farm, in Little Cottonwood, and he says that he has always treated his wife and her children well. He explained that everything was going along nicely in the home when suddenly his wife packed up and left, and the next thing he knew the children were in the orphanage and his wife had brought suit for divorce, alleging cruelty.

Clerk Eldredge endeavored to reconcile the couple, but Mrs. Baker would not consent to go back to her husband. Baker offered to take her back and purchase some new clothes for the youngsters, but this she would not have. The children will be returned to the orphanage pending the settlement of the divorce case.

SQUIRE COOP IS PLEASED.

Prominent Musician Thinks Eldest is the Thing.

Squire Coop has written a letter to the secretary of the Cambrian society congratulating it upon its enterprise in arranging the great Eldesthood, which will be held here in October. The note Mr. Coop sends reads:

"I desire to commend the enterprise of the Cambrian society in the interest of music. I look upon the promotion of Eldesthood as a benevolent service to the community and to the profession.

"The Cambrian society, together with Mr. Evan Stephens, the beloved dean of our choral music, is responsible for very, very much that we enjoy today whether our station be on the farm or in the city studio.

"I think of no other factor that would be able to do as much for music's good as another Eldesthood, especially may I add if some of its splendid stimulus could be exercised in the direction of our orchestral needs.

"In our evolutions let us not forget that we are a musical kangaroo, we need more head and balance, especially may I add if some of its splendid stimulus could be exercised in the direction of our orchestral needs.

The management of the Eldesthood calls attention to the fact that entries in all departments will close Sept. 1.

LEADING GERMAN-AMERICAN FUNDS BRYAN SENTIMENT SWEEPING WEST

Herman Ridder Says All But Hidebound Partisans Are Falling Into Line.

Herman Ridder, publisher of the New York Staats-Zeitung, the greatest of German newspapers in America, and president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, was in the city yesterday with Mrs. Ridder and a family party of nine en route to the Yellowstone. Mr. Ridder is distinguished for a good many things. He is a leader of German-Americans and still about the most ardent American imaginable; he is a potent factor in national politics and yet as independent as the traditional pork on ice.

As the president of an association which includes nearly every large newspaper in America, Mr. Ridder led the fight of the publishers against the paper trust and carried it into congress last winter with such energy that Uncle Joseph Cannon had to appoint a special committee to smother the agitation for the removal of the tariff on wood pulp and paper. It is recorded also that Mr. Ridder and his able laborer, John Norton, secured the cooperation of members of a branch of the paper trust and forced them to plead guilty and pay fines after the Mann congressional committee had declared it could find no evidence of the existence of a trust.

Although he was in the city only a short time between trains, Mr. Ridder found time to look around and say some extremely pleasant things about the beauty of Salt Lake.

In response to a request for an interview, Mr. Ridder said:

"The sentiment on the Pacific coast and throughout the far west is very strongly in favor of Mr. Bryan, as I have learned from personal contact with the people on this side of the continent. My advances from the east are all very favorable to Mr. Bryan, and this applies especially to the state of New York.

"Mr. Bryan, by his conservative and convincing speeches, is gaining the confidence of all those who are not hidebound Republicans favoring high tariff.

HEALTH RECORD FOR LAST MONTH

Fewer Deaths in State Than in July of Last Year—Some Peculiar Facts.

During the month of July there were 241 deaths in the state of Utah, according to the report of the state board of health, issued yesterday. In July, 1907, there were 255. A remarkable feature of the report is the column taking into account statistics with reference to typhoid fever. Of the 35 cases reported, only one proved fatal. Last year there were 11 cases, with 8 deaths. Of the 29 cases of typhoid last month Salt Lake had 14, and Salt Lake also had the only death from that disease. Last year there were 15 cases of typhoid in Salt Lake, with 2 deaths.

Tuberculosis is not losing its place as the terrible plague. Of the 15 cases reported, 11 deaths were recorded. Last year there were 8 cases and 6 deaths.

Other interesting mortality statistics contained in the report show: Scarlet fever, 50 cases, with 3 deaths; smallpox, 15 cases, with one death; diphtheria and membranous croup, 41 cases, with 4 deaths; whooping cough, 156 cases, with 3 deaths; measles, 36 cases, with no deaths; children are reported with 12 deaths; pneumonia, 37 cases, with 12 deaths.

For the corresponding month last year these are the figures: Scarlet fever, 35 cases, with no deaths; smallpox, 5 cases, with no deaths; diphtheria and croup, 35 cases, with 7 deaths; whooping cough, 23 cases, with 4 deaths; chickenpox, 20 cases; pneumonia, 29 cases, with 15 deaths.

In July of this year Box Elder county led in scarlet fever with 15 cases, as compared with none in 1907. Salt Lake had only 15 cases of scarlet fever, as compared with 8. Of smallpox Salt Lake had 10 cases and Utah county 7. Utah led in diphtheria, with 15 cases, Salt Lake recording 13. Cache county reported 12 cases of pneumonia this year, with three deaths, as compared with only one case last year.

Supplementarily to the report the secretary, Dr. T. B. Beatty, issues the following:

"Health officers or others who expect to attend the International Tuberculosis congress, which convenes in Washington, D. C., September 22, are requested to advise the state board of health, in order that they may be appointed delegates from Utah.

"The meeting will be of such great importance that the state should be well represented, and it would be a good investment for each of the larger towns to send a delegate at the public expense.

"The failure of physicians to report all cases of typhoid fever is responsible for much of the prevalence of the disease, and health officers are urged to strictly enforce the law in this respect. In the effort should be made to discover the source of infection, especially with reference to the water and milk supply, and the disinfecting of excreta should in all cases be insisted upon. See sections 1, 2 and 3, chapter 81, laws of Utah, 1905.

GET THE BEST: ROYAL BREAD. SERVICES AT M. E. CHURCH. One of Most Prominent Bishops Will Preach in the Evening.

Until yesterday evening it was not definitely known whether or not the pastor, F. B. Short, would be in attendance at services in the First Methodist church today, on account of the conference. Mr. Short, however, has arranged to be in his pulpit at the forenoon service. In the evening the congregation will be addressed by John W. Hamilton, one of the most prominent bishops in the Methodist church. Dr. Hamilton, his wife and daughter Helene are guests of Dr. Short and his family at their home, 37 H street.

Dr. Short extends an invitation to all of the worshippers of other churches whose pastors are absent from the city to attend the services in the First Methodist church.

Herman Ridder.

"There is no question but that the tariff should be reduced, as the Republicans themselves, in their platform, have declared for revision. So the real question is not whether the tariff should be revised, but which party the people should entrust with this great work.

"Republicans have had the executive and both branches of congress for the last twelve years, and they have never removed the tariff from any commodity except once temporarily during the coal famine.

"Last winter they declared that the tariff should be reduced, but as a presidential election was coming on, they strongly urged that the tariff be left as it was. They decided to postpone action until after the presidential election. By that act they confessed that they put the interests of their party above the interests of the people. Hence they cannot complain now that their sincerity is doubted and their new promises are not believed. It is evident that the whole program is simply a scheme and a maneuver to fool the people into returning them to power for four years more. Then tariff revision will be postponed for another four years, and when the next election comes around the same promise will be made again in the hope that they can postpone this tariff revision forever.

"The Republicans are allied with the trusts. Mr. Harriman and the Southern Pacific road control the Republican party in California. They are all carters and they will elect Taft and a Republican congress.

"The Republican party must not only be judged by its past performances on the tariff matter, but it must be judged also by the many things it keeps doing. A survey of the situation must prove to every thinking man that Taft is the candidate of the high tariff protectionists and of the men who control the trusts. As the tariff and the trusts are twin evils, co-related and interdependent, Taft's election means a continuation and perpetuation of the present unbearable condition of the wage earners and the laboring class. All the profit of labor through the workings of the high tariff go to the trusts, making the trust magnates richer while the workers grow poorer. If bad times come, the laboring class is to find the balance of power in this campaign, and I believe the independent element in the state of New York will throw thirty-nine electoral votes to the Democratic candidate."

STATE WIDE ORGANIZATION TO AID IN WIZARD OF WASATCH CARNIVAL

To arouse a permanent interest in the Wizard of Wasatch carnival to be held every year in Salt Lake, Fisher Harris, secretary of the Commercial club, intends to organize a society to be known as the Imperial Order of the Wizard of the Wasatch. Branches of the order are to be formed in all of the cities and towns of Utah, and the annual carnival will also be an annual gathering of the "wizards" of the state.

Mr. Harris says that the lodges outside of Salt Lake are to be in charge of the preparations for the carnival. The resources of their sections at the carnival. In this way, the organization of "wizards" will have both social and business features.

In Salt Lake, a permanent organization will be formed to take charge of the general arrangements for the carnival. Mr. Harris, who leaves today for Brighton, will return to Salt Lake in about a week, when he will call a meeting of business men to take up the matter of the annual carnival. The meeting will be held about the middle of September.

"The Salt Lake organization," said Mr. Harris, "will attend to the general arrangements for the Wizard of the Wasatch carnival, but as we desire to have the resources of all the regions surrounding the city displayed while the multitudes who attend the carnival are here, the branch organizations will be necessary. At every point throughout the state there are enterprising men who are busy with the business of building up communities and developing agricultural or mining resources, or industries. These men will be the 'wizards' of the various sections. There will be the 'wizards' who make Provo's strawberries famous; the 'wizards' of St. George's vineyards, and the 'wizards' of a hundred places could name who are doing great work for the state.

"When we have all the 'wizards' of the state united and prepared to gather at the carnival, the 'wizards' who have made the achievements that have been made throughout all the surrounding regions, we will have a carnival of which the entire state will be proud."

While at Brighton, Mr. Harris will commune with the Wizards of the Wasatch and will have a list of persons who are to be the future members of the Imperial Order of the Wizard of the Wasatch.

WILL APPOINT JUDGES.

State Fair Directors to Hold a Meeting This Week.

As James G. McDonald, president of the Utah State Fair association, has returned from his outing in Provo canyon, a meeting of the board of directors will be held this week, at which the judges who are to award the prizes of the various departments at the state fair will be appointed.

The matter of providing a refrigerator with a glass front for the exhibition of stoves, which will be taken up. The need of the refrigerator was suggested by the proposal of the Jensen Creamery company to display a statue made of butter at the fair.

Arrangements will also be made for the putting up of tents in various parts of the grounds in which old persons, women and children can find shelter and resting places, and refreshments at moderate cost.

BOOTH CAUGHT NAPPING.

Arrests Disorderly Drunk and Leaves Him Unguarded.

While attempting to oust a drunken man from the store at 25 South State Israel Levy was struck on the head with a chair in the hands of the "drunk."

Deputy Sheriff Booth was passing at the time and arrested the disturber. Levy stated that he wished to make a complaint against his assailant, after he had washed the trace of the battle from his face, and would accompany the deputy sheriff to headquarters. Booth went to the rear of the store with Levy, leaving his prisoner unguarded for the moment. The man promptly "beat it," to the immense disgust of Deputy Sheriff Booth and Mr. Levy.

Levy appeared last night in Chief Pitt's office to make a complaint against Booth, but was referred to the sheriff's office.

TO RESURFACE MAIN STREET

Petition From Property Owners Asks That This Work Be Begun at Once.

The project to resurface Main street with asphalt from First to Fourth South streets has now taken definite shape in the form of a petition to the council to order the work done which is being circulated among property owners.

Three months ago when the council ordered notice of intention published to resurface the street from South Temple to Fourth South, it was defeated, but by eliminating the block at the head of the street it is thought that no difficulty will be experienced in securing the approval of a sufficient number of property owners.

By Jan. 1 it is expected that all of the poles will be out of the center of the street. The Utah Light & Railway company is now engaged in placing its trolley poles at the side, and the Western Union Telegraph company is the only concern now in the way. This company has its underground conduit completed and has been waiting for the arrival of the cables from the east. Some of the cables arrived during the past week and work will be commenced soon.

"What, McDonald's Salt Lake

Chocolates the finest made in the United States? I should think the best chocolates would be made in one of the large cities."

Doesn't the finest furniture come from Grand Rapids? The choicest writing papers from small towns in the New England states? Now, really, aren't nearly all of the best-known products of mill and factory from towns or smaller cities?

SO IT REMAINED FOR McDONALD TO LEAD THE WORLD IN THE MAKING OF CHOCOLATES AND COCOA.

And McDonald's great confection of the hour is Merry Widow Chocolates. Compare them with chocolates made elsewhere—the comparison will be emphatically in favor of the Merry Widows—in favor of the Salt Lake concern as against the world.

WEATHER IS MODERATE.

Bit of Windstorm Makes Afternoon Somewhat Disagreeable.

There was no cause for complaint against the heat yesterday. The maximum was 83 degrees. A bit of a dust-storm that came fitfully from time to time in the afternoon filled people's eyes and made the tears flow, but there was not any real discomfort. There was a suggestion of rain in the atmosphere, and a few drops did come down, but they were so few in number that they amounted scarcely to a trace. Today's weather will consist of local showers, according to the prediction. The report for yesterday reads:
